

A man in a camouflage jacket is running towards the camera in a street at night. He is holding a machete high in his right hand. In the background, several people are also running, some holding sticks. Two large fires are burning in tires on the ground, illuminating the scene. The overall atmosphere is one of chaos and protest.

Background & History

Sisanda Henna Films started out as Diamond Hill, the original name of the company when it was birthed.

Started out with cooperate contracts, servicing a government agency, an NGO, and then moved on to supply services to bigger companies on television prime-time projects. Music variety show for Sabc, an Sabc sitcom, then onto some telenovelas till we signed our direct contract with Sabc to produce magazine cook show called Rustic Chakula. After that we went on to do direct business with M-Net, and finance independent projects with support from NFVF, DTI, Multichoice & Eastern Cape Development corporation.

Our founder's vision to put out some of the best original works the world has ever seen, has had us squarely focussed on always producing high quality no matter the project, because all our work is an impression on future clients.

Youth Filmmaker Project

An annual year-long, discovery, training and mentorship program of the brightest film writing & directing talent in the country.

The program targets the previously disadvantaged youths to be trained in developing, writing and directing their own debut short films that will become their directing calling-cards in the international market.
